Description

A contemporary 18ct white gold solitaire ring, centred on a beautifully proportioned oval pink tourmaline. Its clear, fresh colour is given centre stage in a clean and elegant setting, allowing the gemstone's natural brilliance and soft rose-pink tones to take full focus.

The oval-cut tourmaline is mounted in polished white gold, whose cool, luminous finish offers a refined contrast to the warmth of the stone. The simplicity of the design gives the ring a modern, effortless elegance, while the substantial 18ct gold construction ensures it has the quality and presence expected of a fine jewellery piece.

Pink tourmaline is admired for its range of romantic tones, from delicate blush through to richer raspberry hues. Here, its graceful oval shape and uncluttered setting create a versatile ring that can be worn every day, styled as a striking right-hand ring, or chosen as an unusual and colourful alternative engagement ring.

A beautifully understated contemporary jewel, combining the enduring appeal of a solitaire design with the distinctive character of a coloured gemstone.
