Description

A Shipton & Co Art Nouveau silver plaque brooch depicting two entwined dragons.

The two dragons represent yin and yang in Chinese culture. The interaction of energy between these yin yang dragons is symbiotic. The brash yang spurs the introspective yin into action when she would rather drift. The intuitive yin provides better guidance to the sometimes impetuous yang, helping direct his energies in the most productive paths. Together, they generate the ebb and flow of energy that propels the universe and everything in it, and this flow of energy known as chi is a founding principle of feng shui.
